1st Sunday of Lent - Fr. Leo

“The LORD God formed man out of the clay of the ground and blew into his nostrils the breath of life, and so man became a living being.” (GN 2:7)

We live and move and have our being because of the infinite love of God who created us in his own image and breathed life into us. This love and gift of being is God’s original blessing to each one of us born into time. Nothing can erase or change the fundamental relationship with God that God himself has established. We are God’s sons and daughters!

Lent is a time for us to ponder the wonder of God’s love for each one of us that is beyond our imagining. Reflection on God’s love for us, is an endless source of bliss and renews our gratitude for such a gracious God. From this gratitude, our love for God expresses itself in our dedication to God and in our imitation of him in loving all creation, especially all humanity.

Sin is what weakens our gratitude to God. It doesn’t change God’s love for us, but distances us by our choice, from sharing in the fullness of God’s Spirit. The result of such actions brings shame, as we see Eve and Adam sewing fig leaves together because they were naked.

Grace, which is not earned but is pure gift through Jesus Christ in the Holy Spirit, is what restores our closeness with God. With God’s grace we can stand naked before him again, and be at peace with ourselves because we will be our true self before him. Our false self will be gone. This is what God desires, and God keeps offering himself to us in the hope we will return to him and desire him more than anything that could come between us.

Jesus’ time in the desert was his affirming of what makes him one with his Father, and a denial of all that would make him turn against God. Power for himself, riches and a lack of total reliance on the Father is what Jesus rejects so he can be one with the Father.

The unity of Father and Son is what Jesus desires for us. In this Spring time of Lent, God sends his Spirit upon us that we may be fully one with the Father and the Son. To make us divine, is God’s goal, and now is the time for us to let the Spirit form us into the fullness of God’s image. The season of Lent culminates in Pentecost, so let us strive to come face to face with God in all we do, so that we may come to reflect his love back to him and to all, on the moistened eyes he gave us. Let us gaze with gratitude upon the Lord that we may see his face and enter into the fullness of God’s Kingdom. Living in gratitude is the key. So let us not give up something this lent, rather, let us take up gratitude in all we do and with every breath we take.

A Sunday Early Evening Study Series

“White Privilege; Let's Talk”

Linden Hills UCC, 4200 Sheridan Ave So, Minneapolis

All are invited to attend

Sundays, March 12, 19, 26 and April 2 (5:00 – 6:30 pm)

This series will take its shape from the United Church of Christ's “White Privilege: Let's Talk” curriculum. We will start by reflecting upon our Spiritual Autobiographies through the lens of race, along seeking other perspectives by reading spiritual autobiographies from writers of several races. We will consider the racial history of the twin cities area, including facets that have not been a standard part of school curriculum, so may be new to many of us. We'll also look at the phenomena of norming and stereotype threat, and be introduced to critical race theory as a framework for analyzing racial incidents large and small. All the while we will endeavor to build a space of trustworthy listening for each other and practice mindful communication skills.

Rie Algeo Gilsdorf is interested in the intersection of spirituality, social justice, and education. She is a member of St. John's Episcopal Church, Linden Hills, where she has led learning experiences for the Facing Race ministry. Rie currently works for Pacific Educational Group, coordinating racial equity seminars for PreK-12 schools and districts, and is a Courageous Conversations About Race affiliate practitioner. Please register at <https://www.lhucc.org/white-privilege> or contact Pastor Eliot Howard at 612-597-5533. The cost of this series is $30/person or $45/maximum per family. Scholarships are available. This series is planned for participants of middle school age and all ages older.
